Seven Students Selected for International Program

For the past twelve weeks, candidates for the International Programs, an overseas study program for students within the California State University system, have been anxiously awaiting the board's decision. Well, the results are in and we are proud to announce that seven of the students here on our own campus were accepted into the 1983-84 program. These students are: Mary K. Bruston (Spain), Jeffrey S. Espionosa (France), Douglas E. Johnson (Germany), Diane M. Lang (Germany), Le Nruyet (R.of C.), Cynthia A. Sagmeister (UK), and Sandra D. Thompson (Quebec).

According to Dr. Rydell, the programs coordinator, there were about 28 applications submitted to her initially for evaluation, however, she explained that only ten of these were actually sent to the Chancellor's office for consideration by the board. This was due primarily to some financial complications, low GPA, or students who were not classed as juniors or seniors, a requirement for acceptance. Dr. Rydell commented that, "Although all of the students are not qualified to apply we do try to help those who are prepare as best we can for their experience." Since there were only 450 positions available for the some 700 students who applied this year there was quite a lot of work involved in giving each student the best possible chance to pass interviews and other such tests which determine whether or not a student is qualified to study abroad.

The International Programs was established in 1963 as the official study abroad unit of The California State University and Colleges. Under direction of the Office of International Programs (OIP) in the Chancellor's office, students are offered an opportunity to enroll simultaneously in one of the CSU campuses in a foreign university or a special study program center for a full academic year. Eligibility is limited to students who have achieved an overall grade point average of 2.75 at the time of their application to the program (except for countries where the minimum GPA is 3.0).

Since her appointment to Council Campus Representative in 1967, Dr. Rydell has played a key role in helping students to study abroad with the International Programs.

The International Program is offered every year so those who are interested in studying abroad can still apply next year. The deadline for applications is in early February but students are encouraged to see Dr. Rydell in PL 224 as soon as possible. This will help to ensure proper planning. Studying abroad can be a wonderful experience and has many lasting benefits also. Students are culturally enriched and receive a broader outlook on life. Since students must work to maintain a high GPA their academic potential is enhanced. Languages are becoming more important in the job market so there may be practical benefits also. In any case, students are invited to investigate what the program has to offer and see just how much a person can benefit from the experience.

Robots at Annual ME Festival Next Weekend

by Lisa Beard

Robots are here and soon to become an integral part of our society. Since robots are already being developed for commercial as well as home use, it is important for school age children to be given the opportunity to learn about robotics and acquire hands-on experience in this quickly growing field.

To make this possible the Computer Center at Cal State will be hosting the Robot Olympics on April 27-28 in conjunction with the second annual ME (Microtechnology for Everybody) Festival.

During the Robot Olympics elementary, junior high and high school students will be competing in various events all structured to sharpen their logic skills and to introduce them to the world of robotics.

Teams from many schools in the Inland Empire area, as well as some from as far away as San Diego, have already entered the competition. The students will be participating in a broad range of events including building a robot "turtle," which comes in kit form with the parts requiring soldering already assembled to be fully functional, and programing a robot to perform specific maneuvers such as drawing letters on a newprint covered surface.

On the day of the competition the Robot Olympic judges will explain the event and then begin timing. The team, in each division, with the most efficiently functioning robot will be awarded a trophy in addition to the t-shirt given to each participant.

How quickly can a robot be assembled or programmed? There is no answer to that question yet, but on April 27-28 the Robot Olympics competitors will be trying to set some records.

Any student, faculty or staff member interested in helping or judging at the olympics should contact the Computer Center at 887-7293.

Frank Slaton prepares a robot for the annual ME festival.

State Financial Aid Not Based On Draft Registration

Today, the state legislature firmly rejected a proposal that would have required all California student aid recipients to declare that they have complied with, or are exempt from, draft registration laws. Assembly Bill 2570 by Assemblymember Frank Hill (R—Whittier) would have prohibited the California Student Aid Commission or any public or private university or college from issuing California financial aid to any student who had not signed a draft compliance form. AB 2570 went down to defeat in the Assembly Education Committee five ayes, seven noes, and three abstentions.

"We are obviously very pleased with the action taken today by the Assembly Education Committee, we feel they

NEWS BRIEFS

Science, Culture and Society Forum

A number of deans and faculty have banded together to put together in the month of May a series of presentations that bridge different disciplines. We call it the Science, Culture and Society Forum and we have scheduled the following presentations for a series of Thursday brown bag meetings in PL 241, at 12 noon:

May 3 Irving H. Buchen, Dean, School of Humanities, "The Future of 1984" Discussant: Professor Fred Kellers, Professor of Physics.

May 10 Frank Farrell, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, "Minds and Machines" Discussant: James Crum, Dean, School of Natural Sciences.

May 17 Richard Ackley, Professor of History, "The Militarization of Outer Space" Discussant: Jill Buroker, Assistant Professor of Philosophy.

Student, faculty, and staff are invited to attend. We hope you will attend and bring a guest or two with you.

Legislator of the Year

The California State Student Association this week named its 1983 legislators of the year.

In its desire to recognize outstanding student-oriented legislators, the CSSA annually honors a legislator in the Assembly and the Senate by naming the California State Student Association Legislator of the Year from both houses. This year, Assembly members Robert Campbell (D-Richmond) and John Seymour (R-Anaheim) have been named the recipients for their efforts on behalf of students during the 1983 Legislative Session.

Stress Management

The Counseling Center is once again offering workshops on stress management. The workshops are scheduled for Wednesday, April 25th from 6-9 p.m. and Friday, April 27th from 1:00-4:00 p.m. in IS 227. Topics to be discussed will focus on biofeedback, defining personal stress, techniques for stress management, time management and how we can change and control stress through cognitive restructuring. If you are having difficulties in school, work or find yourself in an emotional slump, then this workshop is for you! Contact the Counseling center at extension 7437 or drop by PS 227 to sign up.

Foreign & Domestic Teachers Organization

The Foreign & Domestic Teachers Organization needs teacher applicants in all fields from Kindergarten through College to fill over six hundred teaching vacancies both at home and abroad.

Since 1968, our organization has been finding vacancies and locating teachers both in foreign countries and in all fifty states. We possess hundreds of current openings and have all the information as to scholarships, grants, and fellowships.

We realize the principal problem with first year teachers is where to find the jobs!

Our information and brochure is free and comes at an opportune time when there are more teachers than teaching positions.

Should you wish additional information about our organization, you may write the National Teachers Placement Agency, UNI-VERSAL TEACHERS, Box 5231, Portland, Oregon 97208.

We do not promise every graduate in the field of education a definite position however, we do promise to provide them with a wide range of hundreds of current vacancy notices both at home and abroad.

Sexual Assault Services

The San Bernardino Sexual Assault Services is seeking additional volunteers to become counselors in its sexual assault assistance program. The full course will require six weeks training and will be completed at the Rape Crisis Service in San Bernardino.

The program is designed to meet the emotional needs of all sexual assault victims regardless of age or gender. Assistance is provided to both the victim and their families to adjust to the impact of the assault and to help understand the proceedings of the services and agencies that they may contact.

Volunteers will complete a minimum 40 hours training program which will emphasize crisis intervention, listening and counseling skills, mechanics of advocacy and referral services.

Upon completion of the training, most counseling activities will be provided at the convenience of the counselors. Telephone counselors are able to work from their homes.

Those interested in participating can obtain further information and application by calling 883-8689 or 825-1033.

Business and Industry Career Day at UC Riverside

Students and job seekers are invited to explore career opportunities during a free Business and Industry Career Day, April 25 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the University Commons, University of California, Riverside.

Representatives from more than 40 firms and public agencies will be on hand at information tables to answer questions about job openings, qualifications, salaries, and the application process with interested visitors.

Represented will be state governments, city and county governments, graduate and professional schools, banks, insurance companies, industrial firms and more. Organizations include Security Pacific National Bank; General Dynamics; Sears, Roebuck and Company; Bank of America; Internal Revenue Service; Rohr Industries, Inc.; and others.

Students can ask about specific coursework and requirements to prepare for careers with various agencies. Seniors and graduate students can make contacts with key individuals that may lead to interviews and possible job offers.

Career Day is sponsored by the UC Riverside Career Planning and Placement Center. For more information, call Michael Grigsby at 787-3631.

Biology Announcement

Today, April 18 at 12 noon, BI 225, Dr. Richard Fehn of Cal State's Biology Department will speak on Diabetes and obesity. As an Endocrine Psychologist, Dr. Fehn is conducting original ongoing research into the latent onset diabetes. He will present his latest discoveries made since a symposium he presented a year ago.

Dr. Fehn received his B.S. in Biology from Cal State then went on to obtain his Masters while also working as a Biochemistry research associate of Loma Linda University. In 1980 he went to the University of Arizona at Tucson and received his Ph.D. in Animal Physiology in 1983. He has since joined the faculty of Cal State.

Selecting New Resident Assistants

by Carol Leish

Who was Mike Chatham, Resident Assistant (RA) of Tokay referring to when he said, "I've got to trust them?" An RA job can be a "practical testing ground for interpersonal skills," according to RA Lisa Alfano.

On April 9 people who potentially want to become RA's for the dorms in Cal State's Serrano Village met in the lower commons to become aware of what the job entails. These applicants must have met the criteria of having at least a 2.0 GPA before coming to this informative meeting and before being granted future interviews.

Debbie Haessly, RA of Badger Dorm, and Dave Bristow, RA of Shandin Dorm, discussed the topic of enforcing policy. They stressed to "know it (the policy), before you tell others." According to them, an RA is a disciplinarian. They said to "be consistent in how you deal with friends and others, in order to gain respect with your residents."

Chantal White, RA of Mojave Dorm, said it is important "to know people and what they have to offer you," in terms of beginning various activities. She said that an "RA is a supervisor who communicates and surveys various situations." She stressed the importance of knowing your dorm residents' interests and "what they like to do."

RA of Waterman, Sharon Saks, said "An RA that shows enthusiasm and motivation can be a role model for residents." An RA that joins the Serrano Village Council on the Food Committee for the College Commons sets an example for dorm residents.

Dan Schaefer, RA of Morongo, and Barbara Goldstein, RA of Arrowhead Dorm, discussed the pros and cons of being an RA. Dan said that an RA gets financial reimbursement for their room and board in the village. He said that "you find out your abilities and limits and your responsibility by applying rules and regulations. One is able to deal better with emergency situations." Barbara commented that an RA "doesn't have that much privacy and that you live in a fish bowl." She also stated that an RA has to be a "disciplinarian when learning to manage their time." Smiling, she said, "being busy is fun."

Mike Chatham, said that trust is important in order for staff unity. "Compliments and gaining support from others on staff is important," according to Mike.

"An RA that shows enthusiasm and motivation can be a role model for residents."

Lisa Alfano, RA of Joshua Dorm, said that her job is preparing her for the future. She said she has "more direct communication and has learned time and management skills." She said, this is "preparing me for life in the real world."

The Assistant Housing Director, Debbie Morales, said that the potential RA applicants will first go through a round of interviews, involving questions and answers. Those moving on to the second round will be given situations to role play. The present RA's, workers from the SAIL program, workers from the Placement Center and members of the community will be judging the applicants during the interviews.

The RA selection will occur in May. The eight people who will be chosen as RA's can "command respect," according to Sharon Saks.

Decorative Arts Exhibit

by Carol Leish

The beauty displayed by selections from the Edward-Dean Museum of Decorative Arts will dazzle your eyes.

The exhibit displays furniture and decorative arts. The major stylistic currents showing Rococco and Baroque are expressed through interior design and decorative art used in the show. The exhibit includes selections of Western Europe Art, primarily of the seventeenth through nineteenth centuries. According to Dr. Kaplan of the art department, "it is a display of items from a broad geographic range. Some of the pieces are quite outstanding." The display includes an Antwerp and a Milanese chest. The focus of the show "reveals the Edward-Dean's strengths in English eighteenth century furniture and nineteenth century watercolors," Dr. Kaplan.

Many people on this campus have helped make this project of the art show a success. Associate Vice President Jim Thomas has been a supporter of the Art Gallery program. "President Anthony H. Evans and Executive Dean Michael W. Anderson took a special interest in this exhibit," said Dr. Kaplan. He said, "Dean Buchen of the School of Humanities gave steady encouragement." Grad student Jeanne Lane wrote entries for the catalogue and designed the installation of the art work. Larry Thompson, a faculty member, and his publication design class took on the design of the poster (with a picture of a Globe Worktable, Vienna c. 1815-1830) and the catalogue as a project. Many art history students also helped.

The art exhibit is open April 13-May 15. Gallery hours are: M-F, 9-4 p.m., T-W, 7-9 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday, 1-4 p.m. This exhibit also makes the museum more well known, with the help of the director, Janice Holmlund, and the former curator of collections, Janice Queener-Shaw.

Winning the Salary Game

by Greg Timpany

As June approaches those students who are graduating begin to wonder what to do next. Some will go on to grad school, some will do nothing, but most will begin to look for a job. Most will simply jump at the first offer that is given to them. Several months down the line they will find that they cannot live on their current salary. They will have the option to look for a higher paying job or beg their boss for a raise.

None of this has to happen. On April 25 at 6 p.m. in the lower commons the Cal State Marketing Association (CSMA) is sponsoring a seminar on "Winning the Salary Game." Leading the seminar will be Dr. Pat Schul from the University of Southern California. Dr.

Schul will provide you with the knowledge necessary to get the salary that is right for you. He cannot promise that you will be making $100,000 next year, but he can inform you on how to determine a salary that is appropriate for you.

Knowledge is the key to getting what you want. Dr. Schul stresses company, job, and industry research. As a prospective employee it is important to know about the company, and to know where you would fit in. Extensive research should be done well before the actual interview.

All seniors, juniors even, are invited to attend the seminar. This will be your best chance to pick up the vital information that can help you to get the job you want.

took the most appropriate course of action," said Paul Knepprath, Legislative Advocate for the California State Student Association. Knepprath went on to state that "stopping this bill in committee was a number one priority for this Association and we are claiming a victory for students and for California higher education institutions which would have been forced to act as an enforcement agency for Selective Service."

PRESIDENT

Chris Phelps, A.S. President

Now that Cal State is moving into the fast lane-it'll soon be a University-the A.S. needs, more than ever, a progressive experienced leader.

While working towards my degree at Cal State, I have always been at the forefront of campus activities and issues to improve the quality of campus life for all of us.

Currently I am chairperson of the A.S.' Special Projects Committee. I managed the stage production for A.S.' highly successful talent show. I'm an active member of the women's organization having taken part in their programs. As night manager of the student union, I am aware of the problems there.

During my first years at Cal State, I helped raise funds to start the Child Care Center and I was an Activities committee member. I served on the village council and organized escape outings.

As your A.S. President, I'll push to hold the lid on student fees, extend library hours, and make the atmosphere more conducive to both, day and night student involvement in student government and activities.

Bridget Copeland, A.S. President

Through my experience as president of the Black Student Union (BSU), I've learned how much responsibility is involved in being president of an organization. As president of the BSU I was also exposed to the workings of Associated Student Government. Because of that exposure I go into the campaign for President with some goals towards expanding the present Associated Student's goals, and with the desire to implement needed changes.

A primary goal is to investigate a more equitable means of allocating funds for club activities. I see a strong need for more diverse programming to stimulate a wider range of student activity. For example, a greater utilization of faculty and other campus resources for noon activities, such as lectures and concerts, can be encouraged and supported by A.S. Additionally, although my contact with the evening-student population has been limited, it has been expressed to me by many that there is a need for extended child care services and additional security for women (implementation of A.S. escort services may be helpful).

The student body has been accused of being apathetic towards Associated Student involvement. I don't know if that is completely true, but an active open-door policy by Associated Students can make the difference.

Through my life experiences I have concluded that with awareness comes understanding; and with understanding comes acceptance. I don't know how much of an impact I will have in making these changes, but I do have the willingness and reserve (through commitment) to try. A step towards the goal is to hold an office, for change should occur from within the system.

VICE PRESIDENT

Jose Benavides, A.S. Vice-President

When an individual obtains or perceives a goal, motivation sets in. One's pistons begin to pump and energetic thoughts are communicated to others. I feel our student body is much like this machine, it sits restless without one to put in the key.

Because I feel I have these qualities, I am compelled to run for this position. The time has come to inject some new blood into a system which appears to be somewhat stagnant and removed from the students. Fresh ideas and new programs must be introduced on campus. Because of the diversity of students attending Cal State, more services catering to day, residential, and evening students are needed.

The position of Vice-President for the Associated Student Body takes an eager individual with the willingness and motivation to excel. So let's accelerate; this is the foundation to all successes, without this foundation, intended goals become mere intentions and nothing else.

Sheryl Hammer, Vice-President

Experience, knowledge and dedication are the three most important elements in an organization such as Associated Students. After being on the Associated Students Board of Directors this year representing Dual and Interdisciplinary Majors and working with other committees and clubs on campus, I have gained the experience and the knowledge with which to carry out the obligations of the Vice-President and have the dedication to do so.

I am presently a junior at Cal State and my majors are Criminal Justice/English/Pre-law. I have been involved in many clubs and activities while at Cal State. This year I am on the Associated Students Board of Directors, a member of the Appropriations Committee, a student representative on two faculty-senate committees, President of Sigma Beta Upsilon (the Criminal Justice Honor Society), and Vice-President of Cal State's Organization of College Women.

One of the major jobs of the vice-president is chairing the A.S. Board meetings. Because I have been a board member and my interests and studies lie within the field of law, I understand and have the knowledge to effectively run the A.S. meetings.

As A.S. Vice-President I would like to work closely with the A.S. president and try to promote such items as, decreases in student fees, enhance student input in campus issues, and increase Cal State San Bernardino's reputation within the community and throughout the state.

So remember on elections day, Go with Experience-Sheryl Hammer for Vice-President--reelect an A.S. Leader.

TREASURER

Elizabeth Eastes, A.S. Treasurer

My name is Beth Eastes. I am running for Associated Student Body Treasurer. This is my second year at Cal State. I am a sophomore and a business major with marketing as a concentration. I have several years of experience in this area. In high school, I had two years of accounting and was also treasurer of our D.E.C.A. class (Distributive Education Clubs of America) my senior year. Immediately following graduation, I was employed by a small CPA firm. Because of the small size, I was able to receive on-the-job training in all areas. I was in control of payroll, taxes, accounts receivable and payable, petty cash, etc. I feel I have the necessary experience to serve this position well. I shall commit myself to the fullest extent in this office when elected.

Sandra Boyd, A.S. Treasurer

Hello, my name is Sandra Boyd. I am a senior psychology major and registered nurse who is running for the office of Treasurer. I have been on campus for two years and am now a resident of Joshua in Serrano Village. I would like to represent You, the Student Body in a personal and sincere manner.

My experience in leadership positions is varied. I have held the offices of Secretary and Treasurer in high school, along with being editor of various publications.

I was president of my nursing class for two years, concurrently serving on Student Senate Committee. I have also served as a church council member on stewardship and finance committee.

That's Sandra Boyd for Write-In Treasurer on your ballot April 18 and 19.

Kevin Harvey, Dual Major B.O.D.

I'll leave out the rhetoric about my qualifications and life history. The fact is I've seen money, time and effort wasted because of weak organization of campus activities. And funding isn't the problem. Your A.S. fees serve a purpose. Cal State could provide the atmosphere and entertainment so many go off campus for.

Rather than pin our hopes on a utopia centered around a fairytale football team to pull us out of our apathetic slump in student morale, let's organize our current student resources. Cal State has an enormous pool of talent and energy that has as yet been overlooked.

We're all adults here. Let's stop waiting for inspiration. This is our campus, remember? It's time for a major shift to occur in the student attitude towards Cal State.

Next year could be different.

ADDITIONAL CANDIDATES

David Swedlove, School of Education

Hi, I would like to introduce myself. My name is David Swedlove and I am presently a sophomore majoring in liberal arts. I wish to run for the A.S. Board of Directors as a representative for the School of Education. I believe that liberal arts majors and education majors have not gotten the credit or the representation that they deserve. So I would like to represent those students in the school of education. As a representative of the School of Education, I plan to be fully involved in A.S. activities and will encourage other liberal arts majors and education majors to get more involved in campus activities.

So all education and liberal arts majors, please take the time to vote and place a check for David Swedlove on elections day.

Also Running For Vice-President is

John "Jack"
Vaughan

Richard Ybanez, School of Humanities

My name is Richard Ybanez and I am running as a candidate for the School of Humanities. I am a senior majoring in art and I am asking for your support during this years election to this position. Although the position takes on many responsibilities and duties, I will make every effort to represent honestly those students in the School of Humanities. I believe that as students, we should work together in presenting to the Board of Directors any comments, problems, or other communications that should be make known when the occasion arises. Once in this position, I will consider all ideas and suggestions that students may have. With your vote and help, I feel I can be representative to the students within the School of Humanities.

Greg Scott, Social and Behavioral Sciences

A student government which provides student services is important and requires experienced, responsible management of funds-spending on a priority basis of students and services first, as a Member of the Board of Directors, I can bring seasoned decision making and budget management experience as well as the common sense derived from being a student and a member of the board for the past 3 years. I am a proven team player and committed to developing a cohesive board open to creative problem solving.

My involvement past and present includes Vice President, Board Member, Foundation Board Member, Student Union Board of Directors-Treasurer, Student Representative.

Although much has been accomplished, there is more to be done. In the next year we must continue our pursuit of excellence in student services and efficient use of student dollars.

We must make certain that our student fee money is used to provide services to students not for administrative overhead and bureaucratic boondoggles.

As your representative to the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences on the Associated Students Board of Directors, I will strive to assure that every student receives the kind of services which are critical to our college campus.

Lynette Sauerheber,
School of Natural

Hello! My name is Lynette Sauerheber, and I will be a senior Health Sciences major. Throughout the current year I have worked in the Associated Students Office as an office assistant and have learned a great deal about the functioning of the Associated Students.

As a Board of Directors Representative, I hope to inform the Natural Science Department of the issues facing this campus and provide them with a greater awareness of available funds. I urge you to show your support and concern by participation in the A.S. elections.

Shelly Bickel, Social Sciences

My name is Shelly Bickel and I want to be your representative on the board of directors of the Social Sciences Department of the Associated Students.

I believe our college needs a concerned board member to honestly represent the students. As my major is political science and my minor is pre-law, I feel that I have the fortitude and the capabilities to fulfill the needs of the students.

I have actively served as chairwoman on committee for clubs as well as publicity supervisor of the international club. With these two positions soon coming to an end, I would like to further my involvement with a more useful board position in which I can actively represent other students.

There are many issues and problems that need to be dealt with here at Cal State. It is the obligation of the board of directors to communicate through one to one interaction as well as keeping you informed of how your money is being spent.

I would greatly appreciate your vote on April 18 and 19.

Remus Haste, School of Administration

My name is Remus Haste and I am currently running for the office of A.S. Board Member from the School of Administration. I am currently a junior majoring in accounting. For the past year, I have been an active member in the Accounting Association which has given me a better outlook on the accounting profession and the business world. I have also attended regularly scheduled A.S. Board meetings, so I am familiar with the responsibilities of an A.S. Board member and the types of decisions one must make. I believe I have the ability to best represent my constituency in the School of Administration and make those decisions which will benefit most.

Before We Put You In Charge Of The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Equipment, We Put You Through The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Training.

It takes more than 16 months of intensive training to become a fully qualified officer in the Nuclear Navy. You begin with four months of leadership training. Then as a Navy officer you get a full year of graduate-level training unavailable anywhere else at any price.

Navy training is based on more than 1900 reactor-years of experience. Right now the Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. And the Navy's nuclear equipment is the most sophisticated in the world. That's why your Navy training is and must be the most sophisticated in the world.

As an officer in the Nuclear Navy, you have decision-making authority immediately. You get important management responsibility fast. Because in the Navy, as your knowledge grows, so does your responsibility.

Your training and experience place you among the country's most qualified professionals. (No surprise that most of the men who operate the reactors in private industry started in the Nuclear Navy.)

It takes more time and more effort to become an officer in the Nuclear Navy. But the rewards are greater, too.

The rewards can begin as early as your junior year in college. Qualify, and the Navy will pay you approximately $1000/month while you finish school.

After four years, with regular promotions and salary increases, you can be earning as much as $40,500. That's on top of a benefits package that includes medical and dental care, and 30 days' vacation earned every year. More responsibility, more money, more future. So, if you're majoring in math, engineering or the physical sciences, and you want to know more about a future in nuclear power, fill in the coupon.

Today's Nuclear Navy is an opportunity like no other in the world.

Talk With The Candidates

Not knowing the candidates running for the Associated Students offices is one of the main reasons why students say they do not vote in the A.S. elections.

During the next few days most candidates for the major A.S. offices will be distributing flyers outlining their qualifications and priorities. This will be an exceptional opportunity to get acquainted with the candidates and to ask questions. The Cal State Chronicle encourages students to take advantage of this opportunity to talk with the candidates.

The Cal State Chronicle Policies

The Cal State Chronicle is published under the control of the CSCSB Publications Board. It is published on a weekly basis for a total of 28 issues less quarter breaks and final exam periods. Contact the office at 887-7497, 5500 State College Parkway, San Bernardino, CA, 92407, for further information.

Letters to the Editor should be kept to a maximum of one and one-half typed pages. Letters which attack any person may be held until that person has had time to respond in the same issue as the other letter. Letters must include name and address, a phone number, and must be signed, although names will be withheld upon request. All material becomes property of The Cal State Chronicle.

The Cal State Chronicle reserves the right to edit all copies submitted in order to comply with space requirements and label laws.

Advertising requests should be addressed or directed to the Business Manager at the address and number above.

Classified Ads may be ordered similarly except that such ads for students, faculty, and staff of CSCSB of reasonable length are free.

Ad and Copy Deadlines are the Thursday preceding the date of publication. Copy received after that date appears in the paper on a space available basis. The Cal State Chronicle reserves the right to refuse to print ads and copy submitted after the deadline.

Advertising Policy. The Cal State Chronicle accepts advertising in good faith but makes no warranty, and does not check any goods or services advertised for validity.

The Cal State Chronicle is funded by an annual allocation from the Associated Students to cover the costs of printing and expenses. It is distributed free to students and the community. The remainder of the funding is generated by The Cal State Chronicle itself.

Letters to the Editor

Turning Off the Ovens

Dear Editor,

One of the most notable features of this campus during the Spring is the fact that the interior library classrooms and PS 10 resemble ovens. It is one thing to have to deal with the hot, smoggy weather outside, but life becomes real difficult when it is 110 degrees inside the classroom.

The everyday chores of students are difficult as is, but when your notes are lying in a puddle of sweat, life becomes a real bummer. It's fast becoming necessary to bring your coolers loaded with beer just to make life bearable. So before we all shrivel away to nothing, let's get some air conditioning in there.

Course Requirement Change Unfair

Dear Editor,

As you all know, the School of Business Administration recently introduced a course requirement change implementing the administration series of Admn 311, 312, and 313, replacing the previously required Admn 301, 303, and 306. This places a burden on anyone who has already taken 301, 303 or 306 by requiring them to take two courses of the new series.

Additionally, since 301 is being dropped from the requirements, anyone who has taken it will receive credit for it as an elective course, but anyone who hasn't taken it, must take an additional elective course.

In summary, 15 units are being replaced by 20 unless you have taken all three courses in the 301, 303, 306 series.

This action constitutes a breach of contract on the part of the college with anyone who entered the School of Business Administration under the 1983-84 or previous catalogues.

Petitions will be posted in the Student Union and circulated among the student body to obtain the signatures of affected students in order to convince the college of the need to make the requirement changes effective for only those students who enter the School of Business Administration under the 1984-85 or subsequent catalogues.

If the college is not willing to resolve this matter in a reasonable fashion, legal action will be pursued after final consultation with the Chancellor's Office.

If you have taken one or two, but not all three courses of the original series, you will be required to take an additional class before being allowed to graduate, unless the college changes its current policy. The law is on our side, but we need your cooperation, so please find a petition and sign it today!

Unequal Distribution of Funds Opposed

To the Editor,

I cannot-to the greatest stretch of my imagination-perceive president Evans seriously considering the demands being made by Ms. Copland and her "under-represented groups." Sixty percent of A.S. funds (paid by such "under-represented groups") would result in such a radically unequal distribution of funds, that the only interests to be served under such a constraint would be those of Ms. Copland's

"under-represented," which would result in the "under-represented" becoming the exclusively represented.

Thankyou for your time,

Mark D. Parker

Do Students Have a Choice?

Dear Editor,

We are now in an election quarter, and we have already seen many banners and flyers floating across the campus. However, before one begins to get too involved in the personalities, background or aims of candidates, it is only too wise to know what we are getting into. Some of the offices that these candidates are running for require a high level of intelligence, e.g. Treasurer. When we only have one candidate running unopposed-as some of these candidates are--then we must seriously question whether we do have a choice.
